Engineering Registration Guide

LET’S START:

1. Go to https://apps.uillinois.edu/selfservice/
2. Log in (make sure you use your enterprise id and password)
3. Select Registration & Records
4. Then select Registration
   (Hint: open up Student Schedule-Week at a Glance and put it to the side to see what times are free in your schedule)
5. Click on Add/Drop Class
6. Once in, Agree to the Statement
7. Select the term you are in
8. Scroll down to the bottom and select class search
9. Find the class you want by selecting the major, and then finding the correct course
   Don’t forget to make sure you have the required prerequisites

If you ever get confused check http://admissions.illinois.edu/tutorial/howtoregister/ for more detailed information.

THE PERFECT SCHEDULE:

Everyone has different preferences. But keep these things in mind:

1. Hour breaks sound great, but remember not all residence halls are very close to the quad. Also if you have classes back to back, make sure that you have enough time to get to the class.
2. Remember not to overload yourself. Classes can be very difficult, try mixing in a few General Ed requirements with your engineering classes; having a lot of technical classes can be stressful.
3. Take a look at your major’s course maps; all majors have very helpful guides to show required classes for your major. Although you don’t have to follow it precisely they can definitely help when choosing classes.
4. Check your DARS report often to make sure you complete all necessary courses.
   You will learn about DARS reports in ENG 100, but for more information visit http://www.registrar.illinois.edu/dars/generate.html

TIPS

-Having troubles finding the perfect schedule? Try http://www.scheedule.com. This website will either automatically set up classes, or you can manually select them. You can choose times that you don’t want class, and even specify if you want a lunch break. It will do its best to fit your schedule

WARNING: Make sure that the classes the website collects are open to you, sometimes there are locked classes for specific majors or years.
