Students in the program will (32 credits):

- Focus on epidemiology or bioinformatics
- Learn to use modern statistical techniques for data analysis in real-world applications
- Use powerful algorithms and sophisticated mathematical models to hunt for meaningful patterns
- Be prepared for exciting careers in:
  - Academic and medical centers
  - Pharmaceutical companies
  - Consulting
  - PhD programs

For more information, e-mail ctw26@georgetown.edu http://dbbb.georgetown.edu

Apply now for a Master of Science in Biostatistics!

Apply for Fall 2013 by: May 15, 2013